Review of literature

During the British period under the provision of The Assam Frontier (Administration of Justice) Regulation 1945, village administration system was introduced in Northeast India where the Gaon Burah or Sarkari Gaon Burah system was set up in the villages of Assam as well as entire Northeast. Since ancient times the village administration system was prevailed in different places of India in different names. In Garo Hills it is known as Nokma or Nokmaship, in Mizoram it was known as Chieftainship, in Jaintia Hills it was known as Doloiship and as same way in Assam it is known as Gaon Burah or Bor Gaon Burah, Sarkari Gaon Burah etc. In the District of Karbi Anglong it is known as Gaon Burah but among the Karbi’s it is known as Sarthe. According to the Historian Dr. S.K. Bhuyan, “In Karbi Anglong, the settlement pattern of the Karbi’s is in the form of village. Each village has a Headman called Sarthe or Gaon Burah who is appointed by the authority of Karbi Anglong Autonomous Council. But each revenue village has a number of hamlets situated kilometres’ apart. Each of the hamlets has a Gaon Burah. Each Karbi village named after the Gaon Burah. The Karbi’s like the other hill tribes have a tendency to live on the hill tops. But the people generally do not live in compact areas. The villages are not only smaller in size but scattered too. In the plain portion of the Karbi Anglong district where the Karbi people practices permanent cultivation and where the village Headman are quite strong the villages found to be stationary, but in the interior areas of the district where shifting cultivation is practised. Shifting of village site is still in the practice. The reasons for continuing such a practice are sometimes economic and sometime social.” The following reasons are the responsible for this:

a. Sarkari Gaon Burah post is a prestigious. In performing of socio-religious rite or festival, the Sarkari Gaon Burah has to be honored first. The village as the hamlet is also named after him. Whenever any aspirant has been found that there is no chance to fulfilling his desire, so he leaves the village along with his followers and established a new village in the new site where he automatically becomes the Gaon Burah or Sarthe.

b. If the Karbi people realized a particular is a haunted place, frequented by ghosts or evil spirits, then they immediately shift their village to a new site as soon as possible to get rid from evil energy.

c. The Karbi’s often shifted their villages to new sites for jhum cultivation.

According to Dr. Bhuyan has been described that the village council of Karbi’s known as “ME” and this council is consists of all elder male members of village. The council is presided by the Gaon Burah or Sarthe, the Sarkari Gaon Burah. Disputes those are petty in nature has been settled by the council and also plays an important role in social economic and religious aspect of the village. Sarthe or Gaon Burah has been playing key role in karbi culture and in the functioning of “JIRKEDAM” (Bachelor’s Dormitory). Dr. Kago Gambo said that The Assam Frontier (Administration of Justice) Regulation Act, 1945 (The AFR, 1945) was introduced to ensured that huge numbers of disputes and cases, both civil and criminal were adjudicated in accordance with the codes of the tribal’s. The AFR 1945 divides the offences into two categories- heinous and non-heinous. The offences of non-heinous nature, such as theft, including theft in a building; mischief not being mischief by fire of any explosive substance; simple hurt; criminal trespass or house trespass; and Assault or using criminal force were entitled to be tried by the village authorities. The village authorities could try and dispose the cases under civil justice without limit of values provided the disputants involved in the cases were indigenous inhabitants. They were also allowed to perform the police duty of apprehending culprits or suspected ones within their respective village jurisdiction. The cases of heinous crimes or offences were referred to the administrative courts of the district.

Even with the introduction of modern participatory political institutions, the institution of Gaon Burah continues to function as an effective instrument in management of village affairs along with the modern institutions. The Sarkari Gaon Burah’s have been useful parts of any government program, policy, project or scheme in the rural of Assam. The Gaon Burah’s has assisted the district administration on national and state festivals like Independence Day, Republic Day and during any dignitary visits to the village. The responsibilities entrusted on the Gaon Burah’s have been geared up towards developments socio-political advancement. For the settlement of any dispute, the villagers came to the Sarkari Gaon Burah. The Sarkari Gaon Burah was needed to forwarding of the villager’s appeals and petitions to the government, in the matter of arrest of the offenders, redresses and for the remedies.
